Lillian Hellman's Play, "The Children's Hour" at Schreiber HS

The Children's Hour*, by Lillian Hellman (1934) is an award winning play about the devastating effects that lies and gossip can have on human lives.

This gripping tale takes place at a girls' boarding school, established and run by two young teachers. All is going well until a spoiled and discontented pupil is disciplined for her lies and poor behavior and plans revenge on the two headmistresses. She spreads a rumor about the two teachers and matters go from bad to worse until they lead to irreversible tragedy.

This remarkable production features the acting talents of Schreiber students: Julia Bain, Sabrina

Brennan, Alexandra DeAngelis, Bridget Doherty, Nina Grauer, Liam Marsigliano, Max Miranda, Elizabeth Muratore, Tessa Peierls, Sydney Ronis, Kimberly Suzzan, Stephanie Anne Thomsen, Delia Van Praag and Kimberly Winter.

Directed by Christine Nelson and produced by Lauren Foster-Holzer, the production has performances on Nov. 15 - 17, 7:30 pm and Nov. 18, 2 pm, in the Schreiber HS Auditorium. Tickets are $10 for GA, $5 for children under 18 and Senior Citizens are complimentary.

For more information, please contact the Creative Arts Department at 767-5801.

Please note: This production has mature themes and may not be suitable for children.*

Library Exploratorium Sunday, November 18 from 1 - 5 pm

Sponsored by Karma411

Co-sponsored by DC Connect, MakerBot, Xerox & Main Street Bakery

Celebrate library power, explore the future and have fun at this library-wide, interactive, technology-inspired "faire" for all ages. Library staff and related experts will demonstrate how the future is here, and show you how to do familiar and favorite things in surprising new ways. Friends of the Library volunteers will be on hand to guide you through the maze of choices. Highlights of the day include:

Watch the MakerBot Replicator 3-D Printer in action: Liz Arum of Makerbot and Jon Santiago of HTINK (pronounced "tink," the "h" is silent) will show how this relatively small and inexpensive device can produce physical objects from strands of melted plastic filament, aka "Makerbotting," and literally print three dimensional objects at the push of a button.

Create your own web page: John Murcott and the Karma411 team will take you on a voyage inside the guts of a website, show you how websites are built and help you set up your own web page.

Come fly away on a Green Screen: Adventure awaits as you step into a Green Screen experience, courtesy of the Long Island Motion Picture Center.

Get a "taste" of the future: Chef Michael Mignano of Main Street Bakery and contestant on the Food Network's Sweet Genius will demonstrate the magic of molecular gastronomy and provide yummy tastings.

Let the games begin: Play a variety of games including Wii, Xbox Kinect, a mobile scavenger hunt and our new online game featuring trivia and other fun activities.

How do you do that? Let library staff show you how to download media and information on an array of devices, and how to learn a language via Mango. Explore our mobile application.

Here today the hair of tomorrow: Let Deterious Hair Designs treat you to a complimentary hair or head display that is out of this world.

Lots more in store, including Starbucks coffee, snacks and surprises!

For more information call the library at 883-4400.
