Preservers' Celebration Pops with 'Illusion,' April 26

Benefitting the Sands Points Preserve

Picture a night of ethereal magic. An evening with strolling magicians, contortionists, a hologram photo booth and moving marble statues. Picture culinary delights by Philip Stone Caterers, including a lavish sushi spread and Love Potion #9, a signature cocktail served over dry ice. And don't forget the soundtrack created by DJ AndiBlaze.

That vision – The Sixth Annual Preservers Fundraising Celebration – comes to life Saturday, April 26, at Hempstead House at Sands Point Preserve. The theme of this year's gala is Illusion "...is the First of All Pleasures."

The evening offers an eclectic festival honoring the Preserve and the Guggenheim Estate's rich history. This year's honoree is former board member Anthony Dalesio, Managing Partner of KPMG LLP on Long Island, and the Award of Distinction recipient Elise C. Tepper. "We are particularly proud to recognize two outstanding people, and to have so many supporters appreciate how important philanthropy is to our organization," said Jean-Marie Posner, Executive Director of Friends of The Sands Point Preserve.

Celebrate the Golden Era of Radio with the Port Washington Play Troupe

This year the Port Washington Play Troupe celebrates the Golden Era of Radio, when families gathered round to thrill to radio dramas and the Great American Songbook. This celebration includes an on-air radio series and their annual summer musical!

RADIO SERIES

First, a proud partnership with community public radio station WCWP (88.1 FM) operated by Long Island University. Live radio dramas (using original scripts) with beloved songs from the period, will be broadcast on April 25 and May 23. You are invited to listen to 88.1 FM (streaming on www.wcwp.org), or live in the studio audience at Hillwood Recital Hall (Tilles Center at LIU Post, 720 Northern Blvd., Brookville).

The Thin Man (based on a Dashiell Hammett novel, the story of witty, would-be-retired detective Nick Charles and his socialite wife Nora, who – in between cocktails – team up to solve a murderous missing persons case involving a cavalcade of suspects) will air Fri., April 25 at 2 pm. Casablanca (based on the film, featuring the original radio drama script from 1944)

Pogo Was Right!

Many of us remember Walt Kelly's Pogo comic strip and/or the quote "We have met the enemy and he is us." Some of us have even used the line on appropriate and, possibly, inappropriate occasions.

With Earth Day coming on quickly (April 17) and our renewed appreciation of the marvelous geography we call Port Washington, it seems like an opportune time to consider these words again... and their reference. Pogo was referring to the impact the world was having on his beloved Okefenokee Swamp. Walt Kelly actually used this quote on a poster for Earth Day in 1970

As a community we are pretty good at activism when it comes to anything that we perceive to negatively impact our environment. We complain, we holler, we sign petitions. A number of people actually do something about the perceived injustice.

Maybe we should take the same attitude towards another blight and complaint here in Port... The empty stores, shops and buildings.

Yes, we hear a lot about how the taxes keep things from happening, how greedy landlords control 'everything,' and the governmental controls, fines and rules diminish the interest in building a business here. And we lament the lack of parking. I submit each of these is probably valid... to some degree.

However, consider Pogo and his quote once more. "We have met the enemy and he is us."

What one thing can we all do towards changing this problem? What level of activism could change the landscape? The answer is remarkably simple...SHOP LOCAL!

That's it... if we all would spend a few dollars more here in town, 10% more?

Ask any merchant in town what 10% more business would mean to them.

Preservers' Celebration Pops with 'Illusion,' April 26

There's still time to purchase ads in "Spellbound, The Journal," which is distributed to hundreds of prominent community and business leaders.

Journal ads yield a portion of the funds needed to sustain the Preserve and its robust programming. There's cultural arts featuring cabarets, operas and jazz performances as well as a Design Showhouse at Hempstead House; year-round nature and education programs; daily fitness and recreation classes for adults and children; and agricultural and habitat workshops with bee-whispering, birding and equestrian programs - most of which are free with the purchase of an annual pass.

Purchase tickets ($200 per person; $175 per person with Annual Pass), sponsorship packages and ads in "Spellbound, The Journal" online at www.TheSandsPointPreserve.com, call 571-7901, or visit the Gate House at 127 Middle Neck Road, open daily, 8 am - 6 pm.
