(Across from the Library)

A large community turnout is expected to enjoy the choral music, and live Nativity Pageant. Join in singing traditional carols while enjoying hot drinks and refreshments. Ornaments will be available for decorating and placing on the tree. The event closes with a visit from Santa to meet with children, hear their wishes and send them off with a small gift.

This joyous occasion has been organized for the past 17 years by the Christmas Tree Lighting Committee.
Self-sustaining, the committee is responsible for organizing and financing the festivities. Please help keep this special tradition alive with your attendance and financial support!

From The Publisher

Ending the year 2014...

The Port Washington Calendar of Events has had a most interesting and positive year. A half dozen years ago "The Calendar," as it is often referred to, began with a concept and goal of providing Port Residents with a compact, concise listing of the month's coming events.

Port is special in many ways especially in the volume of events attended by active, interested residents. Illustrating this is the fact that in 2014, the Calendar ran more than 2500 separate listings of charitable, civic, educational, religious, sporting, local governmental meetings and social events.

We thank all of those volunteers who work so diligently to help us compile all of this each month.

During 2014 we also enhanced PWCalendar.com to include all that is in the calendar and more. If an event becomes known after the issue is posted we add that event to the website. In addition, we made the calendar easier to browse on the site and added an interactive feature that allows the reader to access the advertisers website simply by clicking on their ad.

Publishing is always a learning process and this year we realized that many not-for-profit events and their organizers are not able to run with the frequency of our regular commercial advertisers. Thus we established a separate rate structure to make it easier for the promotion of not-for-profit events.

The best part of all this is that the primary axiom of publishing seems to work... when you provide an editorial package of interest to an identifiable, valuable audience, the advertisers will participate... and they have, and we say "Thank You" to all.
