Wow! A New Year Is Here!

Dave Allen

This is always a popular time to make our new resolutions like getting in shape, exercising, becoming more sensitive to others, saving more money and so on.

Before we get into that mode, it may be more important to reflect a bit on lessons learned in 2018.

These include avoiding political conversations with those who have views different from yours...

It is a no win, and seems to drive everyone into more strident stands.

Another, of course, is to consider the people we have not communicated with over the past year and ask yourself, "Why?"

In the same vein we should review the items and opportunities we simply put off, or procrastinated.

This subject came close to home for Marie and I the very last days of 2018. Marie went into St. Francis Hospital on Christmas evening. (yes, she is fine now - thank you). Like most we feel that we are prepared for most anything but reality proved us wrong. Where was that living proxy? Yes we had a list of medications but no, it wasn't up to date. These were just a sample of the questions that plagued us over the next five days. We both have desks containing 'nests' of stuff we never consider any one else would need.

We both contribute to the business but haven't written down what we do and how to do it. And most of all we soon realized that many seemingly innocuous tasks were not done.

Before completing these thoughts I would be remiss if I did not express our gratitude to the Port Police who answered our 911 call. Courteous and informative are the words that come to mind. As it was Christmas evening, the Port EMTs were busy with a couple of other calls, thus, we had to wait for Nassau EMTs to respond. It was reassuring to have this kind of professional backup.

The folks at the emergency room of St. Francis were terrific! I may seem redundant to use the same description again, but here too, the staff was professional, efficient and informative. We cannot emphasize enough the value of information when there seem to be more questions than answers.

While going through the week we realized that the most important word was "information."

And, maybe that was the best lesson of the year, and the goal for 2019... resolving to be as informative as possible with everyone and everything we do.

Now, why couldn't I find that damned contact lens case?
